

Portland Campus Fall 2023 Curriculum Announcements

Every Other Year Courses to be Offered this Fall

Juniors and Seniors, if any of these courses are required under your track, please take the course this semester. They will not be offered again until Fall 2025.

Wisdom Literature – Bi415 Ken Malmin, 3 Credits

King Solomon declares that wisdom is worth more than any monetary value. The pursuit of wisdom is one of the greatest keys of life. This course explores Job, Proverbs, Ecclesiastes, and the Song of Solomon with an emphasis on the understanding and the pursuit of wisdom. The study of the distinct literary forms of these books in their biblical context is combined with personal and practical application for a dynamic look of the biblical Wisdom Literature.

Minor Prophets – Bi423 Travis Arnold, 2 Credits

An analysis of biblical prophecies as expressed in the Minor Prophets considering both natural and historical significance and their relevance today. Special attention is given to Messianic prophecies involving Christ and the Church, prophetic ministry, and the personal application of their timeless truths.

Teaching Techniques- Ce213 Joanne Hubbard, 2 Credits

This course is composed of a variety of teaching techniques that can be adapted to various age groups, class sizes and educational situations. The student will learn and analyze several educational philosophies and theories as they relate to teaching. Emphasis will be placed on the characteristics of the learner in areas such as human development from birth through adult, learning styles and brain development. Characteristics of the teacher will also be studied as well as different teaching styles, including the place of technology and how to communicate to a changing world. Special attention will be given to teaching in cross-cultural settings and to the illiterate.

Practicum

Practicum (NEW Incoming Students)

- For new students enrolling in practicum, be on the lookout for two upcoming emails from Joy King regarding your admissions requirements. Once received, you will need to follow the instructions on the email and set up a time to meet with Joy to learn more about how practicum works and discuss where you might like to serve during your time here at PBC. Whether at Mannahouse or your local Portland area home church.

*Please note: These are graded assignments. You will get credit for completing the assessment, placement survey, and meeting with Joy in your practicum coursework. Due to a later start this fall, the deadline is no later than Friday, August 12th, before the start of school. Unless you are an international student, meetings will be held by ZOOM unless otherwise noted. The link you will use to schedule the meeting after all previous steps are completed will be in the email. If for some reason you do not receive the emails within a few days of registration for practicum, please reach out to Joy King directly at jking@portlandbiblecollege.org

Important Information for Music Students

General (Music-Related):

- All PBC students are eligible to take private lessons as an elective course. Once a private lesson course is selected and registered for in Populi, the Mannahouse Music School office will contact you in order to assist in booking potential instructors/lesson times. Please email musicschool@portlandbiblecollege.org with questions.
- Worship Workshop is held Thursday afternoons, 1:00-2:30 PM. PBC Chapel and Mannahouse weekend rehearsals generally take place Thursday evenings, and should be considered an essential day of the week for music students to have free. Students are encouraged to select Thursdays as their day off from work commitments as possible, to dedicate to musical growth and rehearsals.
- All freshman/sophomore music students: Pt100 Freedom is required to be taken in any of the first four (4) semesters, completed for Associates degree fulfillment.

Sophomores:

- Bi105 Life of Christ - is now the single required theology course for fall sophomore music students

Juniors & Seniors:

- Junior and Senior music students, please register for the following course. It will not be offered again until Fall 2025.
 - Mu447 Creative Arts Production III (2 credits)
